Bi-fold Door Measuring & Ordering Guide

For Korniche and Origin aluminium bi-fold doors

Measure the structural opening in three places each way and take the smallest. Allow a fitting gap, typically 10mm off the width and height, and give us both sizes so we can check.

How to Measure

1	Measure the width at the top, middle and bottom of the opening, brick to brick.
2	Measure the height on the left, in the middle and on the right, from the finished floor or base to the underside of the lintel.
3	Check the base is dead level. Bi-folds are unforgiving: an out-of-level threshold is the most common cause of panels that drag or will not lock.
4	Check the lintel is sound. A sagging head will make the doors bind.
5	Decide the layout: number of panels, which way they fold, opening in or out, and where the everyday traffic door goes.
6	Choose the cill depth and threshold. With a low or flush threshold, plan the drainage outside.
